

Exploring Literature through Letter Writing Groups

Letter Exchange Charts

Instructions

Below are letter exchange charts for letter writing groups of three, four, five, and six students. Make and distribute the appropriate number of charts depending upon the size of each group.

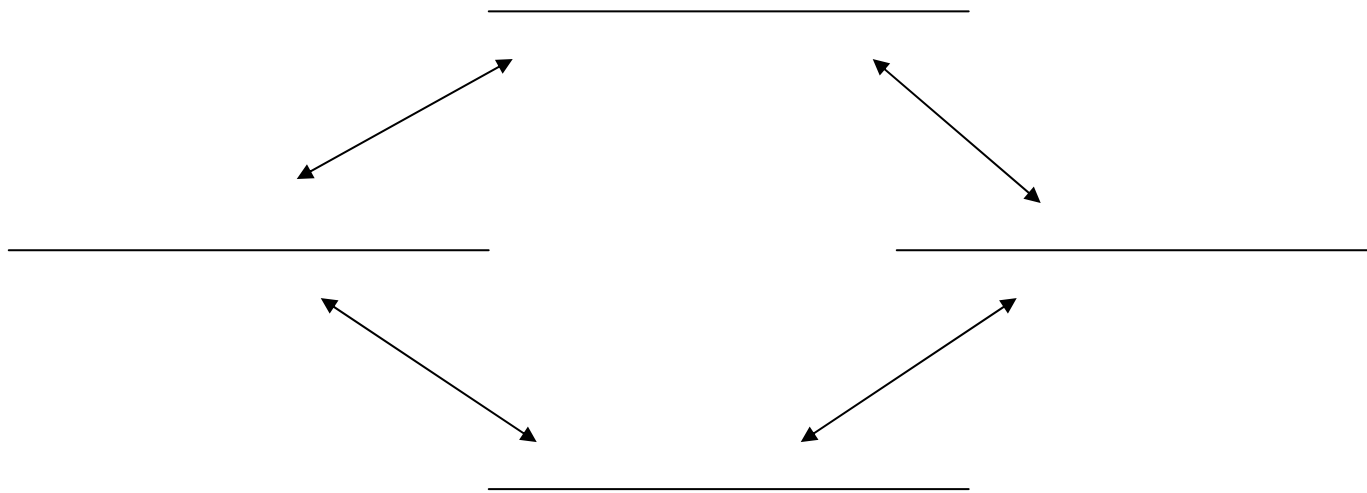

Students' names need to be written onto each blank line. The bi-directional arrows indicate with whom each student should exchange letters.

You can assign groups and who will write letters to whom by filling out a chart for each group and distributing them, or you can allow students make one or both of these decisions themselves by giving them blank charts. The important thing is that each groups' chart be filled out the same.
