

PAUL GOBLE BIOGRAPHY

Paul Goble is an award-winning author and illustrator of children's books. Goble, a native of Canada, studied at the Central School of Art in New York City and later worked in that city as a furniture designer and art instructor.

He has lived in the United States since 1962 and became a citizen in 1984. Lincoln, Texas, had been the artist's residence until he moved to Sioux City, South Dakota. Goble became interested in Native Americans when he was a child. His illustrations show Native American clothing, customs, and surroundings, using only black ink and gray shading.

He first visited the United States in 1950, and he wrote his first book about Native Americans before he moved here. His first book was called The Legend of the White Buffalo Woman.

His books have received a number of honors, including the Newberry Award, given each year for an outstanding children's picture book. He has written and illustrated more than 40 books.
