Food Court Choir Video

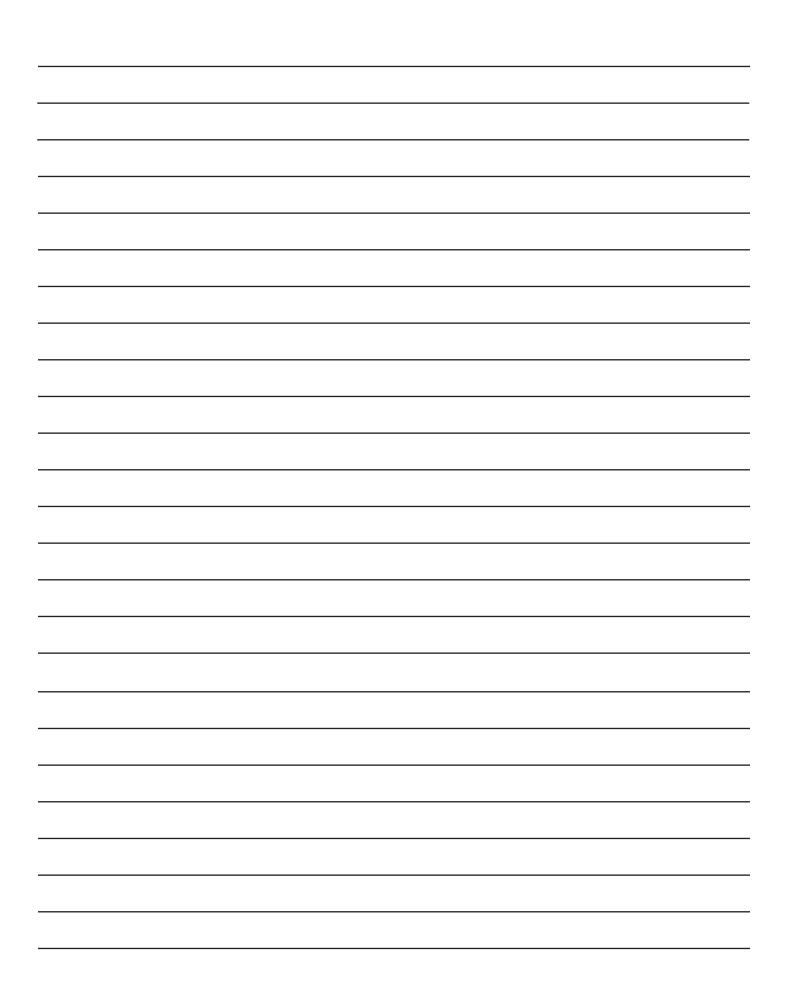

Prompt: Imagine you are one of the people eating lunch in the food court during this musical performance, and you are talking on the phone (quietly) with your best friend the whole time.
Write the dialogue of the conversation, including descriptive details from your perspective, questions from your friend, and your own opinions about the event.

Piano Solo Video

Prompt: Imagine you are the piano player who plays the solo you just watched, and you are filling out your online dating profile. You've come to the part that asks about your interests and hobbies, and you want to write about your love for piano. Describe some part of your life that led you to become such a good piano player. You might write about your first lesson, your first concert, the day you got your first recording contract, or anything else you wish. Remember your audience, and write to try to show true and important things about what kind of person this artist (in your imagination) really is.

Marching Band Video

Prompt: Imagine you are one of the members of the band who created the video you just saw.
This band is known for its creative videos. For the band's fan website, write a short description of your favorite part of this video, along with a little about how the band came up with the idea.
Use your imagination to fill in the backstory, and include details from what you watched.
