

A Tale of Two Cities Texting (Example)

From	To	Text Message	Rationale
Sydney Carton	Charles Darnay	Im at the tavern..we could talk f2f...Are you sure your gf's golden locks plz you? You could do better. She is vile. f2f - face to face gf - girlfriend plz - please	Carton's comments about Lucie Manette, early in the book are bitter and hateful; however he has budding feelings for her. Carton is also a drunkard.
Charles Darnay	Doctor Manette	BTW Doc, the Marquis is my relation....mtf BTW - By the way mtf - more to follow	Charles Darnay goes to great lengths to show his honesty in his decision to reveal to Doctor Manette his true identity as a member of the infamous Evrémone family.
Madame Defarge	Monsieur Defarge	Wayd? Pick up yarn at store. More people must pay, LMK. Wayd - What are you doing? LMK - Let me know	Madame Defarge spends a good deal of the novel knitting a register of everyone who must die for the revolutionary cause. Unlike her husband, she proves unrelentingly blood-thirsty, and her lust for vengeance knows no bounds.
Monsieur Defarge	Madame Defarge	Honey, ttutt, I think your hatred is gonna lead to something bad....pcm. luvu ttutt - to tell the truth pcm - please call me luvu - love you	Madame Defarge's death by a bullet from her own gun could symbolizes the sort of vengeful attitude embodied by Madame Defarge ultimately proves to be her downfall. This text also shows Monsieur Defarge's more caring qualities