

Choral Reading Student Rubric

After attentively watching each group's presentation, respond to evaluation criteria below.

Group Members:

The group prepared a cutting that suggested a new and interesting interpretation of character and theme

yes yes, but could have been done better not really

The group conveyed the meaning and drama of the play's language

yes yes, but could have been done better not really

The readers vocalized the lines in interesting and varied ways

yes yes, but could have been done better not really

The group created a visually striking performance through choreography and colors/uniforms

yes yes, but could have been done better not really

The music accompanying the performance was well chosen and heightened the drama of the passage

yes yes, but could have been done better not really

State in your own words what new insight into character and/or theme this choral reading provided. Be as specific as possible, relating your new understanding to the scripting and performance choices of the presentation.