

You never really understand a person until you consider things from his point of view . . . until you climb into his skin and walk around in it.¹

¹ Lee, Harper. To Kill a Mockingbird. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott, 1960. 30.