

Black and White “is designed to be viewed in its entirety, having its surface ‘read all over.’ It is a book of and about connections—between pictures and between words and pictures.”

—David Macaulay
Caldecott Award Acceptance Speech

from

<http://www.houghtonmifflinbooks.com/authors/macaulay/speeches.shtml#caldecott>