

Daily Response Journal

While you're reading your novel, keep a response reading journal that collects quotations from your readings.

Include these details for each journal entry:

- The Date.
- Two significant quotations from the day's reading and the page number that they appeared on in your book (Keep in mind the type of quotations you will need for your project).
- Personal connections between your own life and events in the day's reading (Keep in mind the type of essays you will write for your project).
- Interesting questions you want to discuss further in class.